The University of Hong Kong

In Digital Brand Communication, student-centred learning and teaching activities are designed to enable students to understand fundamental theories and concepts, develop their generic skills, and address their career aspirations in brand communication and digital content production.

Different modes of activities are employed to provide students with a systematic understanding about the context (e.g. case studies to recognise the purposes of brand communication in local and global contexts, digital media production projects to understand the trends in the branding and promotion sectors) and eye-opening opportunities to experience the complexity of the context (e.g. sharing by practitioners and visits to branding agencies or digital promotion departments of companies to enhance understanding of the workplace requirements).

Students acquire an understanding of the requirements, fundamental knowledge and skills essential for further learning within the area through learning-by-practising opportunities in an authentic or near-authentic environment (e.g. hands-on exercises to understand reasons for brand communication, practise writing and recording digital contents skills and apply pitching and presentation techniques to explain the activities and content of their digital brand communication projects to stakeholders).

Students are also encouraged to develop and apply conceptual, practical and reflective skills to demonstrate entrepreneurship and innovation (e.g. reflect on professional ethics of communication industry through discussion after promotion activities, organise and conduct a creative livestreaming session which matches the brand image and enhances the target audience's understanding of the product). Students are given opportunities to integrate the knowledge and skills acquired and consolidate their learning (e.g. design, organise and execute a digital brand communication project providing students with opportunities to consolidate knowledge and skills of brand communication and the related industry).
