school is very big. Can you guess?

• Write pps' predictions on bb. Provide hints like classroom, playground if necessary.
• Turn to the title page. Pps read aloud the title and make further predictions. Say: Where are the children? Yes, they are in the library. Display the word card in the library.
• Guide pps to refer to the title and say: Who says Where is Miss Pool? Why? What is this book about?

2. Reading and responding to the book

• Set the pre-reading task. Say: The children go to four places in the school.
• Display the sentence strip The children go to ______ and six word cards about places in the school. Guide pps to read aloud the word cards.
• Pps read pp.2-5 silently to find the four right places.
• Pps use page numbers to tell where they get the answers.
• Pps put the correct word cards in the sentence strip. Then they read aloud the four sentences.

• Set the pre-reading question. Say: Miss Pool is not in these four places. Where is Miss Pool?
• Write pps' predictions on bb.
• Display the sentence strip Miss Pool is at ______ on bb. Say: Where is Miss Pool? Please read pp.6-7 and find out.
• Pps read pp.6-7 silently.
• Refer to the pre-reading question. Say: Where is Miss Pool? She is...at home.
• Guide pps to find the page number. Say: Where is the word? Yes, on p.7. Can you point to the word home? Where is Miss Pool?
• Write the word home in the sentence strip. Say: Why? Because Miss Pool has...a cold.
• Use gestures to explain the meaning of a cold and a headache. She has a cold in the head...
• Say: She is not well. She has a cold. She has a headache.
• Guide pps to read aloud pp.6-7. Demonstrate how to pause before the word with, the full-stop and the question mark.
• Display the sentence strips about p.6. Draw the quotation marks and say: Who says these sentences? Yes, the children. The sentences are in quotation marks.
• Put the sentence in a speech bubble. Say: The sentences are in a speech bubbles. There are no quotation marks.
• Point to the man on p.7 and say: Who is he? Maybe he is the teacher. He is talking to the class. What is he saying?
• Use the same procedures for the quotation marks to introduce the speech bubble on p.7.

• Turn to p.7 and say: Where is Miss Pool? Yes, she's at home. Miss Pool is not very well. She has... a cold. How do the children know it? They get... a letter from Miss Pool. Can you read the letter together?
• Refer to the enlarged letter displayed in the classroom and read it with pps.
• Set the pre-reading question: The children give some presents to Miss Pool. What are they?
• Write pps' predictions on bb.
• Guide pps to look at the picture on p.8 to confirm their predictions. Say: What do the children give Miss Pool? What can you see on Miss Pool's bed? Yes, flowers and cards. What do the children say?
• Read aloud p.8.
• Use pictures to help pps get the meaning of get well and miss you. Say: Miss Pool is not well. She is not in the school. She is at home. The children want to see Miss Pool. Look at this picture. The children ... miss Miss Pool. When can Miss Pool come to school? Yes, look at this picture... when she is well... not sick... no cold in the head.
3. Re-reading and interacting with the book
