Learning Outcomes
Content, organization and communication strategies Organizing, presenting and exchanging simple information, ideas, personal experiences and opinions on familiar topics with some elaboration.		Language Use a small range of language forms and functions quite appropriately and accurately.		Fluency Speaking English quite accurately and fluently, and with generally appropriate intonation, rhythm and intonation.		Underlying Principles 1. Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle. 2. The meaningfulness and appropriateness of the written text to the context, purpose and audience are implicit in and apply across all the learning outcomes. 3. The development of some basic communication strategies does not readily lead itself to descriptions of the learning outcomes in terms of eight attainment milestones, for example: • sharing interest in communication • making eye contact • maintaining eye contact • making a volume appropriate to the situation • enhancing one's spoken texts with appropriate gestures and facial expressions • responding readily to others' questions, opinions or comments, and • turn-taking in conversational and discussion. Teachers are expected to help learners develop these basic communication strategies according to learners' individual affective development. 4. Teacher support is essential to helping learners express and organize their ideas during the learning and teaching process. As learners progress, the amount of support provided is gradually reduced to encourage learner independence. 5. Apart from excellent learners in rehearsal speaking activities, more opportunities for spontaneous interaction are provided to prepare them for communication in social / academic situations as appropriate, learner independence.

Underlying Principles

1. Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle.

2. The message/content and appropriateness of the spoken texts to the context, purpose and audience are implicit in and apply across all the learning outcomes.

3. The development of some basic communication strategies does not readily lead itself to descriptions of the learning outcomes in terms of eight attainment milestones, for example:

- showing interest in communicating,
- making eye contact,
- speaking in a volume appropriate to the situation,
- exhibiting spoken texts with appropriate gestures and facial expressions,
- responding to others' questions, opinions or comments, and
- turn-taking in discussions and discussions.

Teachers are expected to help learners develop these basic communication strategies according to learners' individual affective development.

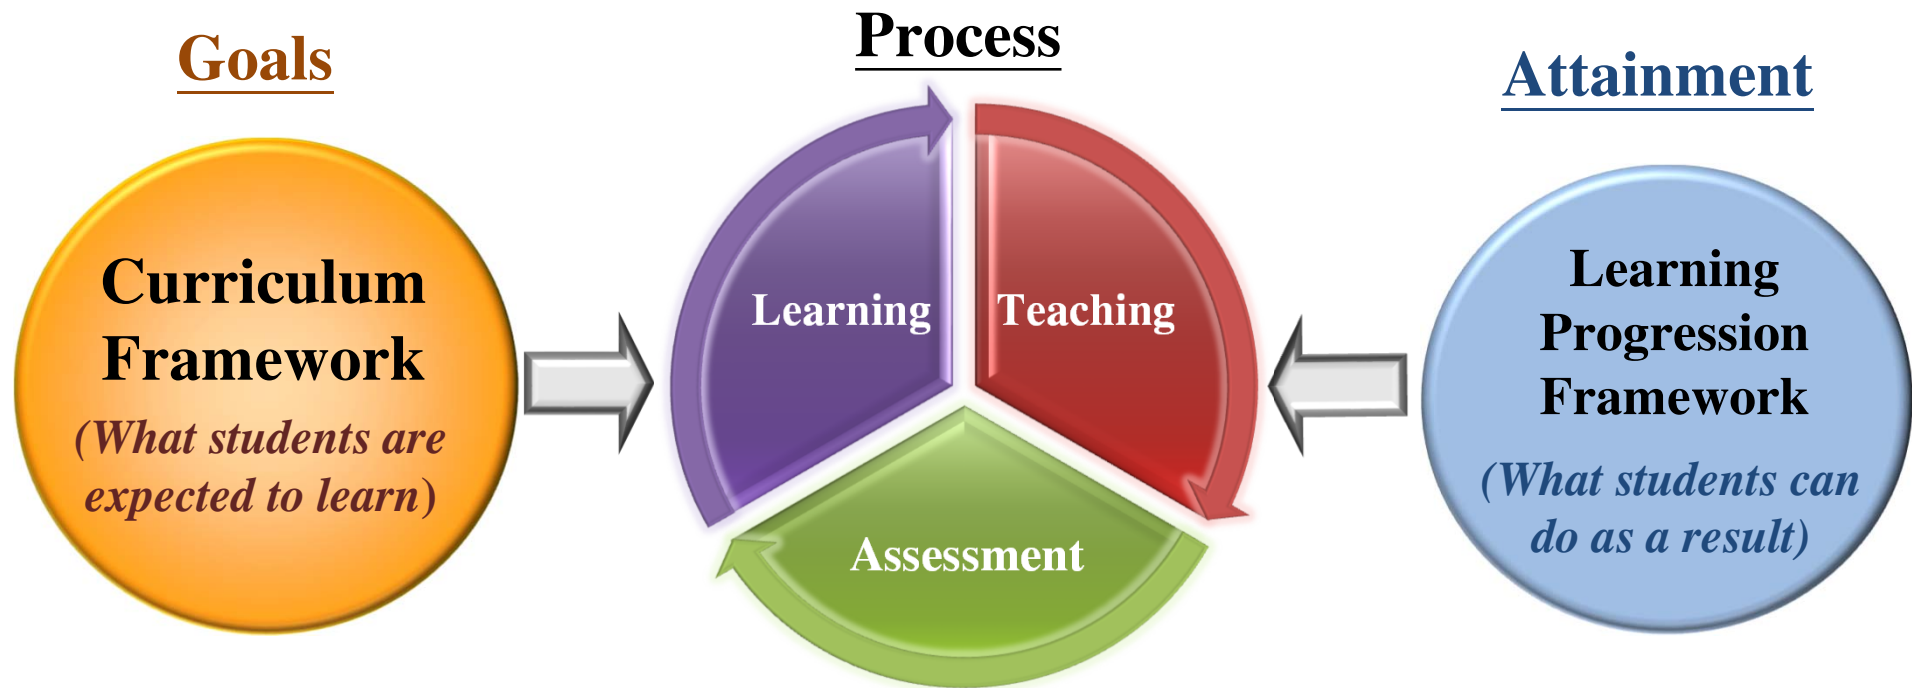

4. Teacher support is essential to help learners express and organize their ideas during the learning and teaching process. As learners progress, the amount of support provided is gradually reduced to encourage learner independence.

5. Apart from enabling learners to rehearsed speaking opportunities for spontaneous interactions are provided to prepare them for communication in social / academic situations as appropriate.

Curriculum Framework and Assessment

Curriculum Framework and Learning Progression Framework

Assessment for/as Learning

What is the LPF for English Language?

represents the growth of learners on a developmental continuum as they work towards the Learning Targets and Learning Objectives of the English Language curriculum;

is made up of Learning Outcomes organised under the four language skills and divided into eight levels of attainment;

helps teachers better understand and articulate learners' performance; and helps teachers plan strategically how to enhance English Language learning and teaching.

Teachers are expected to help learners develop these strategies with increasing sophistication. 4. Teacher support is essential to helping learners express and organise their ideas during the learning and teaching process. As learners progress, the amount of support provided is gradually reduced to promote learner independence.

What are the Purposes of Developing the LPF?

To provide reference for understanding students' learning progress

To plan and review

To help students progress along the learning continuum

Summative assessment / Benchmarking students

Understanding the Learning Progression

Activity 1 (Matching activity)

In groups,

- study the Outcome Statements for three levels of the LPF for Writing; and
- identify the three aspects in the progression of the Outcome Statements for Writing.

Enhancing the interface across key stages

Integrating Writing across the Curriculum in the English Language Curriculum, e.g.

You can use the Venn diagram below to organise your ideas:

Amy Chua's "typical" Chinese parents vs My parents / most parents in Hong Kong

Similarities
Both types of parents...
Like the "typical" Chinese parents, my parents also.....

Differences
By contrast,...
On the other hand
However
Compared to Western parents, Chinese parents are much stricter
Instead of making me play music, they let me do sports

Useful expressions

I'm certain that it's just a stereotype. Sure, a lot of parents from China are strict compared to the ones from the west. But as you know, I'm from Hong Kong but unlike Amy Chua, my parents aren't that strict! My parents allow me to participate in extracurricular activities and I can watch the TV whenever I want!

Race doesn't determine whether western or Chinese students are good at Mathematics or not. Both western and Chinese parents wish their kids to do their best at school, maybe the Chinese students just happen to work harder than western students!

In this case, it doesn't involve the parents.

Guiding students to plan for their writing task using a Venn diagram

Apply the language items to compare the different views and behaviour between Amy's parents and the students' parents in the writing task

Activity 4 (While-writing)

Rewrite a specific part of the rhyme “Little Red Riding Hood & the Wolf” with creativity. Fill in the blanks using your knowledge about rhyme if possible.

Little Red Riding Hood and the Wolf

He quickly put on Grandma's clothes

He dressed himself in coat and hat

He put on shoes, and after that,

He even brushed and curled his hair

Then sat himself in Grandma's chair

In came the little girl in red

She stopped. She stared. And then she said,

"What great big ears you have, Grandma."

"All the better to hear you with," the Wolf replied.

"What great big eyes you have, Grandma."

said Little Red Riding Hood.

"All the better to see you with," the Wolf replied.

He sat there watching her and smiled.

He thought, I'm going to eat this child.

(Winnie) and the Wolf

Finally, Wolfie decided to declare his love to his dream girl, Winnie. Hoping to draw her attention...

He quickly put on hip-hop clothes,

He dressed himself in jeans and hat.

He put on shoes, and after that,

He even wears his brother's top,

Then sat himself in coffee shop.

In came his dream girlfriend in red.

She stopped. She stared. And then she said,

"What big strong arms you have, Wolfie."

"All the better to hug you with," the wolf replied.

"What charming lips you have, Wolfie."

said Winnie.

"All the better to kiss you with," the wolf replied.

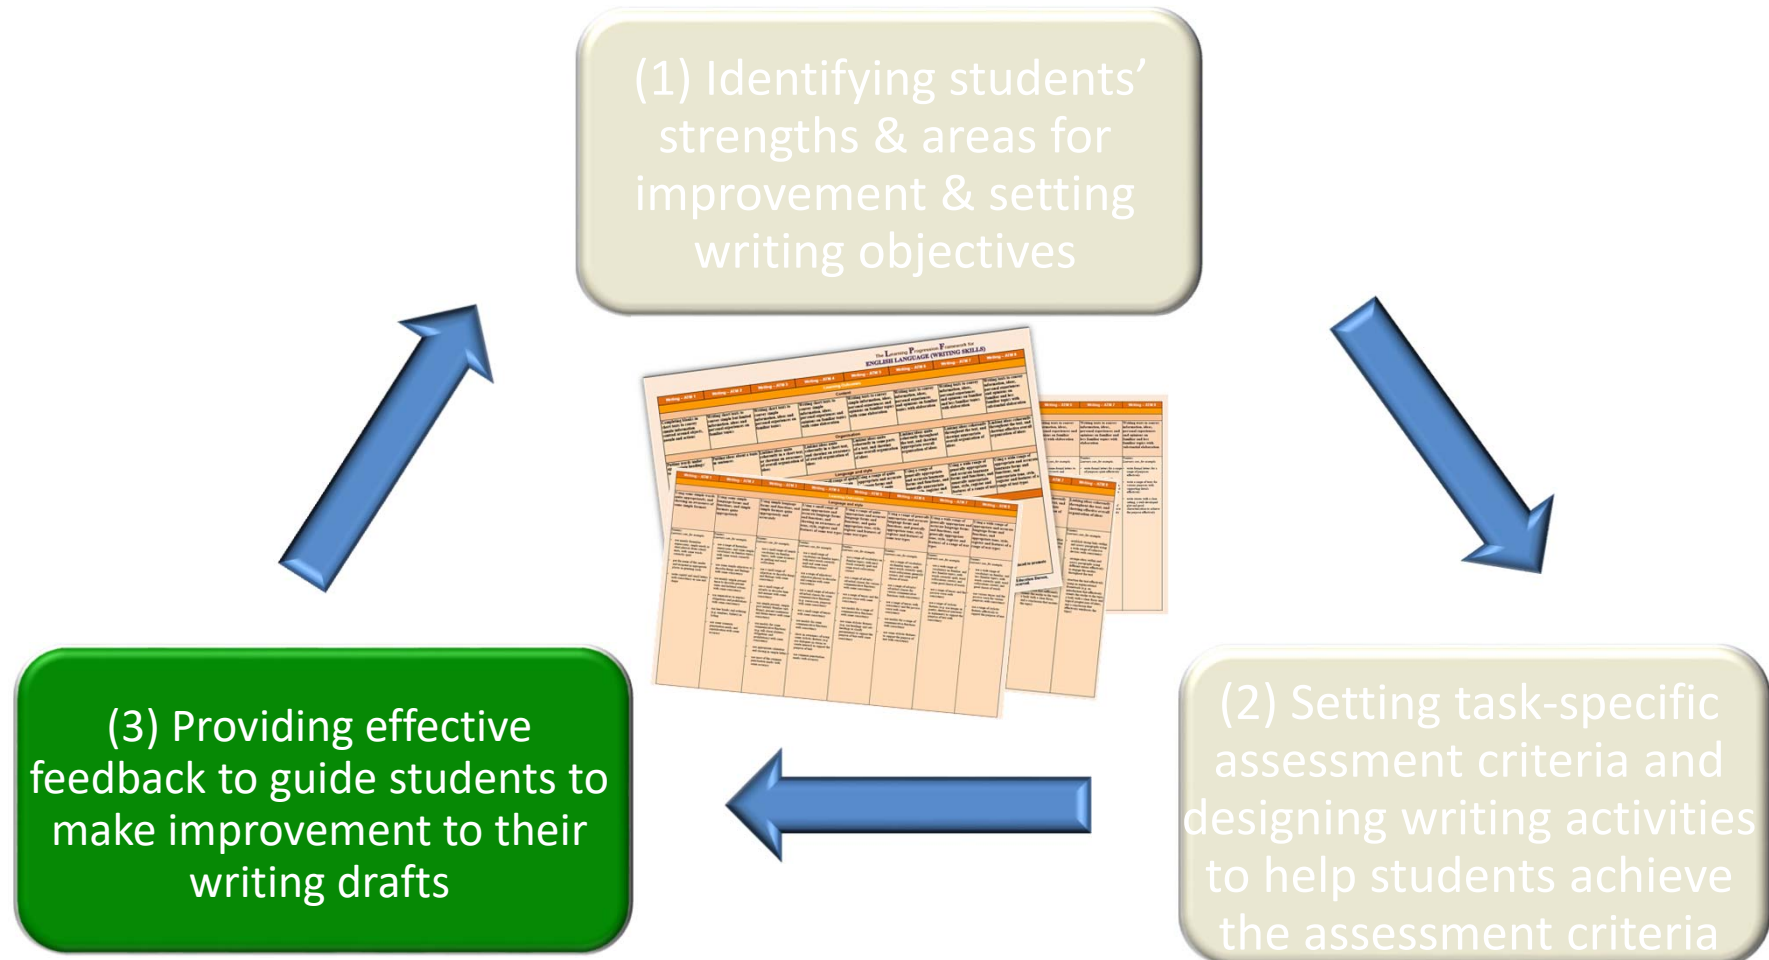

He sat there watching her and smiled.

He thought, I'm going to ask her out.

- 4 using prepositional phrase

Teachers' Role

An Invisible Adventure with my Friend

One afternoon, my best friend, Jane, and I left school and saw this catchy poster “Coca Cola! Buy one get one free!” outside the nearby fast food shop. Jane and I decided to try it together. Jane wondered, “It smelt like medicine!” “Oh, it’s the new taste, cherry coke!” explained the shopkeeper. We had a funny feeling. The drink was dancing inside our stomach! Our adventure started after we had finished the drink which I never thought I would try!

The Magical Fortune Cookie

It was a school day. I paid attention in the lessons as I always did. At recess time, I went to the tuck shop and bought myself some snacks as usual. However, something happened. My classmate, Jacky, whispered in my ears, "You don't have to buy snacks today, you can have this!" I opened the package and found that it was a fortune cookie! I found a note "Close your eyes and make a wish!"

The overreliance on notecards remains a problem. It is recommended that candidates take notes (i.e. short phrases and key words) as a reminder of things they would like to bring up in the discussion, and speak as if these were ideas they had been thinking about, rather than writing out ideas in complete sentences.

Values and Attitudes
(Underlying Principles)

Promoting Positive Values and Attitudes

1. Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle.

Underlying Principles

- Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle.
- The meaningfulness and appropriateness of the written texts to the context, purpose and audience are implicit in and apply across all the learning outcomes.
- The development of writing strategies does not readily lend itself to descriptions of the learning outcomes in terms of eight attainment milestones, for example,
 - writing legibly (preferably being able to use both print and cursive scripts),
 - generating ideas by brainstorming or seeking and selecting information and ideas from different sources,
 - using knowledge of letter-sound relationships to spell words.

Underlying Principles

1. Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle.
2. The meaningfulness and appropriateness of the spoken texts to the context, purpose and audience are implicit in and apply across all the learning outcomes.
3. The development of some basic communication strategies does not readily lend itself to descriptions of the learning outcomes in terms of eight attainment milestones, for example,
 - showing interest to communicate,
 - facing the listener,
 - maintaining eye contact,
 - speaking at a volume appropriate to the situation,
 - enhancing own spoken texts with appropriate gestures and facial expressions,
 - responding readily to others' questions, opinions or comments, and
 - turn-taking in conversations and discussions.Teachers are expected to help learners develop these basic communication strategies according to learners' individual affective development.
4. Teacher support is essential to helping learners express and organise their ideas during the learning and teaching process. As learners progress, the amount of support provided is gradually reduced to encourage learner independence.
5. Apart from engaging learners in rehearsed speaking activities, more opportunities for spontaneous interactions are provided to prepare them for communication in social / academic situations as appropriate.

And I couldn't change anything. It's not like just fixing my hair one day and everything was fine. I couldn't change my circumstance. I couldn't just wake up one day and say, "Hey, give me arms and legs. I need arms and legs." You know what I mean? Like you go to a bodybuilder, you know, "Can you make me some arms and legs?" No, I'm just joking. Bodybuilder, you get it? Right? I go up to people, "Can you give me a hand?" I'm just joking! But it was so hard because people put me down. And I started believing that I was not good enough. I started believing that I was a failure that I'd never be somebody who people would like or people would accept.

2:31-3:06

There are some things in life that are out of your control, that you can't change and you've got to live with. The choice that we have, though, is either to give up or keep on going. I wanna ask you, what are you gonna believe? Are you gonna believe in yourself or you gonna believe in everybody else's judgement on you? Are you gonna believe people when they say that you're a failure, that no one really likes you, that no one really cares about you? And it's not really to say that hey you need somebody to come up to you and say, "Hey, I really like you. I care about you." It's not that. But it's the fact that people put you down.

Promoting Positive Values and Attitudes

- 3) Have you ever felt worthless or powerless? Write a message to a family member or friend who may have similar emotional problems or suffer from depression. You may use the ideas from Nick's speech to encourage him/her.

The Learning Progression Framework (LPF) provides a common scale and language for teachers to describe students' performance and progress in English Language learning. It consists of different levels of learning outcomes (LOs) and descriptors about the growth of students on a continuum as they work towards the learning targets and objectives set out in the English Language curriculum. The continuum is divided into eight attainment milestones (ATMs) for each of the four language skills (i.e. listening, speaking, reading and writing) from the basic level (ATM 1) to the advanced level (ATM 8). While the ATMs are expressed in the form of outcome statements, which give general descriptions of students' performance, pointers are specific examples of what students are able to do in demonstrating the LOs, which support the outcome statements. It should be noted that the pointers are meant to elucidate the LOs. They are neither prescriptive nor exhaustive, and must not be regarded as a checklist for English language development. As these ATMs can provide a clear focus and direction for learning, teaching and assessment throughout primary and secondary education, schools are encouraged to make reference to the LPF when they plan and review the school English Language curriculum and assessment, instead of relying solely on the Basic Competency Descriptors for the Territory-wide System Assessment (TSA), which represent only part of the essential knowledge and skills to be acquired by students in relation to the learning targets and objectives for KSI – 3.
