

Student Seminar on University Pathways in Testing and Certification

Aim / Objective

This is to invite secondary schools to participate in the captioned event.

Details

2. The Science Education Section of the Education Bureau, together with the Department of Chemistry of Hong Kong Baptist University, the Department of Applied Biology and Chemical Technology of The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, and the Department of Construction and Quality Management of Hong Kong Metropolitan University, will co-organise a student seminar on University Pathways in Testing and Certification. The seminar aims to provide students with information on applied chemistry pathways related to the testing, inspection and certification (TIC) industry, and to help them understand that the TIC industry plays an important role in ensuring the safety and quality of products and services. Through the seminar, participating students will be able to explore articulation opportunities and alternative study pathways in science-related disciplines, while gaining a better understanding of the latest development and career opportunities in the TIC industry. This will facilitate students in making informed decisions on their further studies in accordance with their interests and abilities.

3. The target participants are Secondary 4 to Secondary 6 students studying Chemistry. During the seminar, representatives from Hong Kong Baptist University, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University and Hong Kong Metropolitan University will introduce the programme structures, admission routes, articulation pathways and career prospects of their selected degree programmes. The details of the event are as follows:
