Part 1

Briefing on the work of the Advisory Committee on “Business-related Learning” in Technology Education Key Learning Area at Senior Secondary Level (The Advisory Committee)
Background

Why setting up an ad hoc committee?

- To follow up with the unresolved issue on BAFS that requires a more holistic/macro-approach to manage
- The Advisory Committee on “Business-related Learning” in Technology Education at Senior Secondary Level (the Advisory Committee) was formed under the Curriculum Development Council (CDC) in February 2015

What aims to achieve?

- To oversee the follow-up actions of the medium-term review recommendations on BAFS announced in April 2014
- To give advice on the ultimate way forward of BAFS that would pave the way for feedback collection
How to achieve the aims?

Part 2

Briefing on the initial recommendations on the ultimate way forward of the BAFS curriculum and assessment and the school survey
Summary of discussions and key issues observed

- Broad-based learning being the international trend
- Diverse views among stakeholders over the splitting of BAFS/development of other business-related subjects in addition to BAFS
- Workload of students, teachers and schools brought about by substantial change in BAFS
- Impacts of dropping in enrolment rate/rising in dropout rate
- Role of secondary schooling to pave the way for further study and future career of students
- Cater for learner diversity in studying business-related subjects
- Feasibility of launching new business-related subject(s)
Summary of discussions and key issues observed

The way forward of BAFS and the development of separate subject(s) were discussed/proposed with consideration given to the followings:

- To remain steadfast in the ultimate goals of the senior secondary curriculum under NAS
- Impacts on introducing new senior secondary subject(s) to schools
- Students should be nurtured with essential knowledge, skills and values/attitudes required in the 21st century for the ultimate benefit of student learning
- Smooth articulation to multiple progression pathways
- Relevant information and views collected from different sources
- It is important to balance the views of different stakeholders
Initial recommendations endorsed by the CDC for feedback collection

The CDC supported the overall direction of the development of business-related learning at senior secondary level as proposed by the Advisory Committee:

• BAFS should remain intact
• The development of separate subject(s)/splitting of BAFS into separate subjects was not recommended
• However, there is room for improvement in both the BAFS curriculum and the assessment framework.

The CDC endorsed the proposed changes in the BAFS curriculum and assessment for feedback collection:

• A series of improvement measures for the BAFS curriculum and assessment framework were proposed to address the key issues and concerns raised by teachers and school leaders regarding the implementation of BAFS

MODE OF ASSESSMENT
Candidates taking BAFS are required to choose from the two strands: Accounting or Business Management.

The following table outlines the various components of the public assessment of the subject in HKDSE:
