3. Guiding Principles

3.1 Content

- The writing of the e-textbooks should be in line with the curriculum aims and objectives of the Religious Education curriculum.
- The writing of the e-textbooks should be student-centred and from the religious perspectives. The design of learning and teaching activities and homework should be related to the content and aims at promoting students' learning interests.
- Elements of enquiry should be emphasised in the design of learning activities which develop students' ways of knowledge enquiry and the skills in thinking and evaluating knowledge relating to religion.
- e-Textbook publishers should refer to Religious Education Curriculum Guide (Secondary 1-3) (2024) for details.

3.2 Learning and Teaching

- The starting point for writing the e-textbooks would be students' levels and interests. Students would be guided to understand the founders, origin, doctrines and practices of the religion they study.
- The e-textbooks should give an account of and analyse concepts relating to religion in a lively way.
- In order to facilitate students' easy understanding of the content, relevant and essential information such as diagrams, maps and data should be introduced where appropriate.
- To avoid putting extra burdens on students, information on years as well as names of places and people that is not essential should be kept to a minimum. If religious classics are quoted, chapters, sections and the versions adopted should be cited clearly.
- Old names of mountains, rivers and cities related to historical religious events should be used. Modern names should be added as remarks. The interchangeable use of old and modern names should be avoided.
- When using images of the national flag, national emblem, regional flag and regional emblem:

- avoid drawing the national flag, national emblem, regional flag and regional emblem on your own;
  - use real photos to show the national flag, national emblem, regional flag, regional emblem, etc.;
  - use the files of the national flag, national emblem, regional flag and regional emblem downloaded from the Protocol Division Government Secretariat and follow the relevant requirements on the use of these images.
- The principle in the design of homework, which is an extension of the learning themes, would be the enhancement of learning effectiveness.
  - Questions for thinking / homework should aim at developing students' higher order thinking (e.g. analysis, synthesis and evaluation) and consolidating the learning outcomes. The forms of homework should be diversified.
  - Junior secondary education emphasises helping students build a solid foundation of knowledge. As such, learning activities and tasks included in textbooks should aim at helping students acquire knowledge and develop understanding; whereas excessive evaluation questions should be avoided. Moreover, the introduction of broad questions without the provision of sufficient information and guidelines should also be avoided, so as not to exceed the capability of junior secondary students in terms of their prior knowledge, and deviate from the curriculum objectives.
  - The design of homework should take account of students' interests and, if possible, link up with students' daily life.
  - The design of learning activities should link up with students' daily life and related life-wide learning activities as well as provide sufficient information and guidelines to cater for students' different interests, levels and abilities.

3.3 Structure and Organisation

- The structure and organisation of e-textbooks should be in line with the Religious Education Curriculum Guide (Secondary 1-3) (2024) e-Textbook publishers should follow the recommended titles of topics in the syllabus. However, they may decide sub-titles on their own.
- The organisation of e-textbooks should be systematic. The presentation and genre should be diversified to promote students' learning interests.

3.4 Language

- *An English-Chinese Glossary of Terms Commonly Used in the Teaching of Religious Education \(Christian\) in Secondary Schools* (1988) published by the Education Bureau should be referred to where applicable.

- Vernacular language should be used. The level of difficulty of the language used in the e-textbooks should commensurate with the language ability of students. The wordings used should be clear and simple.
- Where appropriate, guidance on pronunciation could be provided to facilitate student learning.

3.5 Pedagogical Use of e-Features

- The e-textbooks should meet the technical and functional requirements with appropriate pedagogical use of e-features for learning and teaching activities and assessments.
- e-Textbooks may provide audio-visual tools to facilitate understanding of difficult concepts and interaction among learners, resources and teachers.
- Interactive assessment tasks could be included in e-textbook to facilitate assessment for learning.

3.6 Learning Elements / Skills Not Replaceable by Digital Means

- Excursion to religious places, participation in religious rituals and carrying out of service should not be completely replaced by digital means. Students should learn from experiential learning activities which are organised and structured around religious teachings.

3.7 Technical and Functional Requirements

- Refer to the latest edition of the Guiding Principles for Quality Textbooks for the relevant requirements.

4. Others

- 4.1 When writing e-textbooks, publishers have to ensure that the content and information provided in the materials should be correct, complete, up-to-date, objective and impartial. The source and the date of the information should be provided as appropriate. The information in the illustrations and images should avoid showing the brand names of commercial items unless they are necessary.
- 4.2 All URLs and hyperlinks (including the publisher's self-developed learning materials and the learning and teaching resources developed by the third party) in the e-textbooks should be linked to the publisher's website for the publisher's easy management. For the third party resources, the URLs or hyperlinks should be linked to the websites with high credibility, such as the official websites and the websites of academic institutions, and avoid linking to commercial or social media platforms. In case problems arise from the hyperlinked content (including the third party resources), the publisher should take immediate follow-up actions and bear the relevant liability.

- 4.3 Publishers should avoid putting excessive hyperlinks that provide additional references in the e-textbooks so as not to violate the self-containment principles. Publishers may place the hyperlinks of their self-developed supplementary learning materials or the learning and teaching resources developed by the third party on their website. Publishers may also provide their website's URL in the Teacher's Book for teachers' reference to facilitate lesson preparation or design of learning and teaching activities. Publishers should be accountable for the learning and teaching resources they provide.
- 4.4 The maps included in the textbooks should be accurate and only contain essential information suitable for student learning. Reference should be made to the requirements and standard maps of the Ministry of Natural Resources of the People's Republic of China for all maps of China included in the textbooks, and wherever appropriate, the respective map review numbers and dates of reference should be quoted. Textbook publishers should also follow strictly the provisions in “公開地圖內容表示規範” issued by the Ministry of Natural Resources.
(https://www.gov.cn/zhengce/zhengceku/2023-02/17/content\_5741977.htm)
- 4.5 It is mandatory for the publishers to ensure that all proof-reading work, including the e-features, language, punctuation, information, illustration, pagination, etc., is completed and the e-textbooks are error-free before submitting them for review.
- 4.6 Publishers should review the e-textbook content from time to time. When necessary, publishers can make amendments to the e-textbook content with the EDB's consent. The EDB may also require publishers to make amendments when needs arise.
- 4.7 Publishers should clear all copyright issues of the e-textbooks as appropriate.
- 4.8 The suggested time allocation set out in the curriculum documents should be taken into consideration to ensure that the learning content is designed with an appropriate quantity and level.
- 4.9 If publishers submit other versions (such as Chinese version or printed version) of the same textbook title for review at the same time, they should duly check the consistency of the content among all the versions. If another version is to be submitted at a later stage, the suggestions in the review reports for the previously submitted version should be duly followed before submission.
